Introduction

The Annual Report of the American Numismatic Society for the 12 months beginning October 1, 1983 and ending September 30, 1984 is presented herewith.

Harry W. Bass, Jr., President of the ANS since 1978, resigned that position as of the July Council meeting for personal reasons. Mr. Bass continues as a member of the Society's governing body to which he was first elected in 1972. In accordance with the Society's Constitution, the First Vice-President, Harry W. Fowler, was named President pro tem; and in turn, R. Henry Norweb, Jr. was elected First Vice-President of the Society. In addition, Council Member Edward Glassmeyer was appointed Chairman of the Finance Committee, a position Mr. Fowler had held since 1978. At the April meeting of the Council, John H. Kroll, Associate Professor of Classics at the University of Texas, Austin, was elected to the Society's Council. He succeeds Theodore V. Buttrey who resigned after 21 years of dedicated service in the guidance of the Society.

At the opening of the 125th anniversary celebration last September, Mr. Bass outlined several activities that the Society would be undertaking in its effort to be of service to an enlarging circle of patrons, including sponsoring socials at annual professional meetings as a means of bringing together members and graduate seminar alumni on a regular basis. This past year, ANS staff members hosted gatherings at the annual meetings of the Archaeological Institute of America, the Middle East Studies Association and the Medieval Institute, all of which were well attended. Another program introduced by Mr. Bass last September is the annual Coinage of the Americas Conference, the first of which is scheduled for November 30-December 2, 1984 on the topic "America's Copper Coinage, 1783-1857." Organizational responsibility for each conference, which includes papers, exhibits and publications, rests in a committee appointed from the membership and chaired by Richard G. Doty, ANS Curator of Modern Coins.

The Society is proud to have been selected to receive an anonymous gift to establish the Donald Groves Fund to further research and publication in the field of early American numismatics, as detailed on page 38. Several of the Society's current publications have benefited from outside funding for which we are truly grateful as we are also for the response by members to the Publications Subscription offer introduced two years ago. Nearly 650 members now use this means to receive the flow of Society publications.

Additions to the Society's collections this year have aggregated the largest number in the last 40 years, the great majority being by gift. Recognized as Benefactors this past year for generous gifts to the Society were Jonathan P. Rosen of New York and Mark and Lottie Salton of Hartsdale. We are grateful as well to the eight new Patrons of the Society and to the many other donors who contributed so handsomely to the coin cabinet and library during the past year. Important also was the opportunity accorded us to purchase the Bastien collection of late Roman bronze coins which has moved us to a position of preeminence in this area.

Reorganization of the Society's Saltus Medal award procedures last year resulted in the election of Guido Veroi of Rome, Italy, the first foreign recipient of this prestigious recognition for outstanding achievement in medallic art. With the award, Mr. Veroi was also elected a Life Fellow of the Society. Other members elected to our roll of Fellows were Professor Kroll, Alan M. Stahl, ANS Associate Curator of Medieval Coins and Frances M. Schwartz, longtime volunteer in the classical and editorial departments of the ANS until her untimely death in July. We were saddened as well at the death of other dear friends including two past Councillors, Wheaton J. Lane of Princeton who served as a member of the governing board for 25 years and Emery May Norweb who died in Cleveland in March. Both had been elected Honorary Councillors for Life upon retiring from active participation on the Council.

We welcomed two new staff members this year—Marlene Rock who was appointed Technician in the curatorial department following the retirement of Mrs. Persy E. Coronis, and Sallie Fried, who joined the staff as Assistant Editor. In the library, Wanda Muñoz has been promoted to NEH Project Clerk following the successful renewal of the Society's grant from this federal agency for another three-year period. The grant project, under the supervision of Francis D. Campbell, ANS Librarian, has the goal of creating a systematic in-depth subject index and authority list for numismatic collections. George S. Cuhaj who has been the Society's Data Entry Clerk since the inception of the ANS computer, has been named Systems Operator to reflect his enlarged responsibilities.

Finally, we cannot overemphasize the gratitude we hold for the members and friends of the Society willing to respond to our pleas for financial help—whether for start-up funds or for a new Islamic/Medieval photofile where the response from those we asked was immediate and generous, or alumni support for the graduate seminar program which has now begun or Annual Giving itself which has a goal of $60,000 for the coming year, twice the level set when this important member-support program began ten years ago and yet each year the goal has been met. I look forward to the continued support of the membership as we seek to carry on the tradition of excellence marked by the tenure of my predecessor, Harry Bass.

The Coin Cabinet

This has been a remarkable year for the coin cabinet in many ways. As the new fiscal year began in October 1983, we had just renovated the West Hall to accommodate a new survey exhibit covering the history of money. There followed the inaugural exhibit of the American Medallic Sculpture Association, which was coordinated by Alan M. Stahl, Associate Curator of Medieval Coins; an exhibit in honor of the 1984 Saltus Medallist, Guido Veroi; and a display of designs for coins of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization which continued through mid-September. The perimeter cases in the East Hall have now been completely refurbished with a permanent exhibit of medals and decorations, and the central kiosk has been removed to permit more flexibility in the installation of temporary exhibitions, particularly those installed in conjunction with the annual Coinage of the Americas conferences.

Equally significant were the year's acquisitions, which surpassed in number those of any year since 1944, when the Society received the bequest of E. T. Newell. Over 18,000 coins were added to the collection, mainly to the Roman and Byzantine departments. Abraham A. Rosen donated 4,200 coins of the third century, principally of the Gallic Empire; these multiply our holdings in this under-represented area by a factor of ten. Dr. David Milrod gave 3,200 Byzantine pieces, almost all in copper, from the G. E. Bates collection, which enhance our already strong holdings in this area and place the ANS collection behind only Leningrad and Dumbarton Oaks for the pre-Palaeologan period.

Without doubt, however, the single most important transaction was the purchase of 2,225 argentiferous copper coins from the collection of Dr. Pierre C. V. Bastien. Dr. Bastien, who was the Archer M. Huntington Medallist in 1975 and who also holds the medal of the Royal Numismatic Society, has long been a student of later Roman coinage, particularly that of the mint of Lugdunum. The pieces acquired by the ANS span the period from the accession of Diocletian to the fall of the empire, and are noteworthy not only for their outstanding condition but for their variety and rarity. Representative specimens are illustrated in the Roman and Byzantine report.

The Medieval and Islamic departments joined forces to purchase an Arab and Norman hoard of Taris, and Juan XII Suros donated over 500 coins of Peru, Bolivia, and contemporary Spain.

This wealth of acquisitions demanded assistance in the Roman and Byzantine departments, and Amelia A. Zalcman, formerly editor of Numismatic Literature, was retained for 12 weeks during the summer to assist in cataloguing new material. There were also two staff changes. In January Marlene R. Rock was named to succeed Persy Coronis as Technician. Miss Rock holds a B. A. summa cum laude from Manhattan College and an M. A. and a Certificate in Museum Studies from New York University. Mrs. Coronis had been associated with the Society since 1962 prior to her retirement. In addition Carmen F. Arnold-Biucchi was promoted to Assistant Curator of Ancient Coins upon her return from leave of absence in February.

The curators continue to enjoy the services of George S. Cuhaj, Systems Operator, who entered most of the coins added to the computer data base during the year. Over 200,000 objects representing some 30 percent of the collection have now been recorded, and as more and more of the collection is entered we are better able to respond to inquiries and research questions.

It is customary to acknowledge the help of our volunteers, and this is done in the departmental reports. But it is particularly sad to take note of the loss of two of them during the past year.

Dexter C. Seymour, who was best known for his studies of territorial gold coinage (particularly that of Templeton Reid) died in March after a long struggle with cancer. Dexter was a chemist by profession, and was always willing to share his specialized knowledge with the curatorial staff, and to advise on current techniques of analysis and metrology. His contributions were recognized by election to Fellowship in the Society in 1976, and in 1980 he qualified as a Benefactor.

In recent years hardly an Annual Report has omitted mention of Frances M. Schwartz, who succumbed to cancer on July 16 at the age of 42. Her willingness to undertake tedious and time-consuming tasks was boundless, and her limited bibliography says nothing about her contributions to the publications of staff members and others, some of which are yet to appear. She was elected to Fellowship shortly before her untimely death.

GREEK

Several friends and members of the Society have substantially enhanced the Greek collection. Of 1,132 coins acquired during the past year, 1,106 pieces came to us as gifts.

Abraham A. Rosen and Jonathan P. Rosen together have added 845 coins to our trays. These are silver fractions and bronze issues among which one rare piece (fig. 1) is particularly worthy of comment. On the obverse, the legend ZEYΣ EΘETΩN is scarcely visible; but the ethnic APTEIΩN appears clearly below the charging bull on the reverse. Given the obverse legend and find spots of three other known examples of the same issue, Peter Franke, Die Antiken Münzen von Epirus (Wiesbaden, 1961), pp. 285-89, has postulated a fourth-century mint, Argos Orestikon, in Epirus. The thick fabric and heavy weight, 28.89 g, recall bronze issues from Sicily.

From the fine Seleucid collection of Arthur Houghton, published by him in Coins of the Seleucid Empire (ACNAC 4), we received 24 silver coins which fill significant gaps that have existed in spite of the superb Seleucid holdings amassed by Edward T. Newell (CSE 504, 508-11, 1037, 1064, 1066, 1103-19). The example illustrated here (fig. 2, CSE 504) represents a tetradrachm of Demetrius II from the mint of Mopsus in Cilicia, whose output was limited under the Seleucids. The only silver coins known are tetradrachms struck under Demetrius II and Antiochus IX. No. 504 is apparently unique.

We have also been the fortunate recipients of the collection of cistophori formerly in the possession of Dr. David Kleiner, most of which are included in Fred Kleiner's publications on this coinage, the most notable of which is his completion of the work begun by Sydney P. Noe, The Early Cistophoric Coinage, ANSNS 14 (New York, 1977). We show here a unique drachm from the mint of Tralles in Lydia (fig. 3 is Kleiner series 46, 15a, ca. 130 B. C.). Within a wreath on the obverse, a lion's skin is draped over a club. A helmet symbol appears to the right of the bunch of grapes on the reverse, and to the left are the first four letters of the mint's name. This collection of 100 cistophori and a few additional countermarked coins were given in honor of Margaret Thompson.

Figure 4 (shown actual size and 3x) is an obol of 0.45 g inscribed with the name of the Bactrian ruler, Eucratides, who probably reigned during the second century B. C. Obols bearing the portrait of this king accompanied by the caps of the Dioscuri on the reverse are not uncommon. This reverse type, however, Mitchiner 167 (see also C. Kirkpatrick, NCirc 81 [1973], p. 6) is most unusual. Herakles stands facing and crowns himself. We thank the donor, Leopoldo Cancio, for the first example of this issue to be incorporated in the Society's Bactrian collection.

Philip Kinns of London has kindly presented us with our first coin from Leucas in Ionia (fig. 5), a bronze piece dated ca. 380-360 B. C., bearing the head of Apollo laureate on the obverse and on the reverse a swan preening itself above the ethnic,  $\Lambda\text{EO}$ .

As in past years, Mark Salton has donated coins struck from dies not represented in our collection. His gift of 37 coins this year includes an incuse stater of Metapontum (fig. 6) struck from a pair of dies unknown to Noe and not included in our own Sylloge.

We are further indebted to Russel Trenholme for 27 coins chiefly from Sicilian mints; to Rita Waterman for 15 "goat" staters of Celenderis and a fifth-century stater of Soli; and to Robert J. Myers for three insidious Celendrís counterfeits. In addition we have received from Leslie A. Elam three bronzes of Cyrene; from Dr. George M. Golden two bronzes of Syracusan and Siculo-Punic origin and a tetradrachm of Lysimachus from the mint of Magnesia; from Jonathan H. Kagan four drachms of the Lycian League which, although included in Hyla A. Troxell's study of the coinage of the Lycian League, had not previously been represented in our trays; and from William Maksudian 25 bronze coins from Syracuse, Crete and other mints.

Finally in addition to several fractions, the Greek department acquired through purchase a wreathed tridrachm of Alabanda. We also obtained with the generous assistance of John D. Leggett two silver staters of the satrap, Strato, ca. 380 B. C., probably from the mint of Tarsus. These last three acquisitions await separate publication. (Waggoner)

ROMAN AND BYZANTINE

The past year has been one of substantial growth for the Roman and Byzantine collections, surpassed only by 1944, in which the bequest of E. T. Newell passed to the Society. The departmental acquisitions totalled 12,340 coins, or a little over two-thirds of the objects acquired by the museum during the fiscal year. Of these 10,105 were acquired by gift and the remainder principally from one of the largest purchases ever made by the Society.

Continued interest in the coinage of the Roman provinces was reflected by the acquisition of three Severan denarii tentatively attributed to Alexandria (figs. 7-9) and four cistophori. Three of these, struck under Augustus, were part of the donation of Dr. David Kleiner, mentioned above; the fourth is only the second known specimen of this denomination struck in the name of Vespasian (fig. 10) and was acquired by purchase. It is broadly similar to BMCRE 2, p. 94, no. 449, but the temple of Roma and Augustus at Pergamum is represented without the two sculptural figures that appear on the British Museum specimen. The obverse die of our specimen is similar, though not identical, to that of the London piece, and would seem to confirm the date as originally read by Hill (COS IIII, A. D. 72: see NC 1925, p. 10, no. 36, followed by A. M. Woodward, "The Cistophoric Series and its Place in the Roman Coinage," Essays Mattingly, p. 149, and D. R. Walker, The Metrology of the Roman Silver Coinage 1 [BAR Suppl. Series 5; Oxford, 1976], p. 138, n. 6, but compare Mattingly's argument at BMCRE 449n.). Unfortunately our specimen is certainly plated and therefore cannot necessarily be regarded as a reflection of a genuine exemplar. Both coins, however, are similar in style to the nearly-contemporary denarial coinage of Asia Minor.

Another significant purchase is a denarius of Pescennius Niger with rev. FIDEI EXERCITVI, three standards with vexilla, the central one of which is inscribed VIC AVG (BMCRE 5, p. 76, here fig. 11). The piece was struck in A. D. 193/4 in Antioch, which served as Pescennius's capital; it is one of two or three known (compare J. Schulman, 8-10 June 1964, 1961b, which is probably the same coin as Naville 17, 3 Oct. 1934 [Evans], 1532). Abraham A. Rosen donated some 4,200 antoniniani of the period Gallienus-Postumus; although most of these are of common varieties, they greatly strengthen our representation of coins of this complicated period.

No doubt the most significant purchase of the year consisted of 2,225 coins from the collection of Dr. Pierre C. V. Bastien of Cranbury, NJ. Dr. Bastien began collecting in the 1940s; his special interests are in the later Empire and particularly in the mint of Lugdunum. Although the single largest concentration is the coinage of that mint, all the later imperial mints from the accession of Diocletian through the death of Honorius are represented. The coins are noteworthy for their outstanding condition, and the assemblage is particularly valuable because of its focus on western mints: heretofore the bulk of our coins of this period derived from the collection of E. T. Newell, which was formed mainly in the Middle East and therefore focused on eastern mints. A selection of coins from the Bastien collection is illustrated in figs. 12-16.

12. Maximian, Lugdunum, early 287: RIC -, Bastien (NR 7, 1972), 131a (one of two known examples); 13. Diocletian, Rome, 293?: RIC 5.2, p. 238, 179; 14. Constantius, Rome, 293?: RIC 5.2, p. 301, 668a; 15. Constantius, Lugdunum, 300-4: RIC -, Bastien (NR 11, 1980), 220b (one of two known examples from the same pair of dies); 16. Maximian, Lugdunum, January-June 308: RIC 6, p. 260, 246, Bastien (NR 11, 1980) 487c (one of four known examples).

The Byzantine collection also grew substantially, primarily through gift. Here the most notable acquisition was the collection of George E. Bates (see A Byzantine Coin Collection, Boston, 1981) from which 3,170 pieces were donated by David Milrod, M. D.; and H. C. Lindgren donated a further 1,971 Byzantine coppers. Other donors to the department included C. Daniel Clark, George M. Golden, Charles A. Hersh, Fred S. Kleiner, William Maksudian, John Mangas, Dr. and Mrs. Jerry Nagler, Emil Polak, Mark M. Salton, and Russel Trenholme.

ISLAMIC AND SOUTH ASIAN

Growth in the Islamic and South Asian departments increased considerably this year, thanks to several large donations. In all, 1,448 objects were added. These included a number of coins and other objects that are new to the Society's cabinet.

The earliest Muslim coinage is represented by a gift of 299 Arab imitations of Byzantine coinage of Egypt, donated in memory of George C. Miles, former curator of the ANS Oriental collection. This is an important series that was first catalogued by Henri Amin Awad in ANSMN 18. This year's donation quintuples our holdings and provides material for a more detailed classification and metrological analysis. From the same era were three Umayyad dirhams of Sasanian type donated by William B. Warden, Jr., including one issue of the governor al-Ḥajjāj b. Yūsuf, dated in the 71st regnal year of the last Sasanian emperor (A. D. 702/3), with the mint signature DA for Darabjird in Fārs province, but, unusually, with the Pahlavi letter P to the left of the fire altar near the steps at the bottom (fig. 17). Only one similar coin is known, published by the late Muhammad Abu'l-Faraj al-'Ush, The Silver Hoard of Damascus, no. AS.118.

A number of interesting glass weights and vessel stamps from Egypt were added to the collection: ten donated by the late Dr. Kurt Munzel, four ornamental vessel stamps given by Stephen Album, and five unpublished pieces acquired by purchase, including the head of a raṭl (pound) ring-shaped weight for grapes made in the time of the Umayyad governor Usāma b. Zayd (A. D. 714-18; fig. 18).

An interesting overstrike of the Umayyad period was donated by Shraga Qedar. It is a copper fals of Wāṣit of the type struck in the years 120-23 (A. D. 737-41) overstruck with another Umayyad or early 'Abbāsid fals which has not been identified, but with a script style that numismatists have regarded as earlier than that of the coin which is the undertype (fig. 19). Overstrikes such as this one are our best hope for putting the many undated Umayyad and early 'Abbāsid copper issues into a chronological sequence.

A new mint town for the collection, Yajarhān, was the place of issue for a dirham of 223 (A. D. 837/8) donated by Mrs. Antoinette Bosco (fig. 20). Yajarhān is a place in the mountains of Morocco represented by only a handful of existing coins. All bear the name Muhammad, who is not known to history; but because the coin also has the name of Ma'zūz b. Ṭālūt, an unsuccessful Mu'tazilī rebel of the previous century, the mint is believed to have been controlled by the remnants of that movement. Also from the 'Abbāsid era is a dinar of Ṣan'ā in Yemen dated 275 (A. D. 888/9), a new date for this mint in our collection, donated by the Stack family.

A few years ago a large hoard of Fāṭimid and Norman quarter dinars from Sicily appeared on the market. It has become known as the Agrigento hoard, not only because it was probably found in that part of Sicily but because in it coins of Gal'at Jirjant, Arabic for "Agrigento Castle," were discovered for the first time. The hoard is also important for its extensive contents of very late Fāṭimid and very early Norman quarter dinars, because both series had heretofore been exceedingly scarce. This year the Society acquired by purchase seven Islamic and two Norman coins from the hoard. The Islamic pieces include Fāṭimid quarters of Ṣiqilliyya (Palermo) dated 461, 462, 463, and 464 (A. D. 1068-72, the latter being the year of the Norman conquest); two anonymous undated quarters probably issued by Muslim holdouts against the Normans; and one quarter dinar of Agrigento itself, issued there in the name of the Fāṭimid caliph al-Mustanṣir four years after Palermo itself had fallen (fig. 21). The hoard will be published by Nicholas Lowick.

The most important single coin acquired by the department this year came as a donation from Paul Bedoukian. It is a gold coin of the first Cilician Armenian king Levon I (1199-1226). Gold coins of the Rupenian Armenian kings are extremely scarce. Only 16 have been recorded, none of which were in our collection. The piece donated by Mr. Bedoukian is one of three known examples of this variety (ANSNM 147 [1962], no. 5); it is the specimen formerly in the Baghdadlian collection (fig. 22).

A hoard of Mamlūk Egyptian gold coins brought in for study this year contained 42 ashrafis of Barsbāy, 25 of Jaqmaq, both very common, and one of Sultan Yūsuf who ruled between them for only 94 days (spanning 841-42 H./A. D. 1437-38). The coin was purchased as the first coin of Yūsuf in our collection.

A donation by Russel Trenholme included 620 Islamic and South Asian coins, including 529 western Mediterranean anonymous square dirhams of the thirteenth-fifteenth centuries, both Islamic coins (probably issued by the Muwaḥḥids, Marīnids, and Ḥafṣids), and Christian imitations of the Muslim issue. The question remains: which is which? The Trenholme donation, added to our already extensive holdings, provides ample material for research on this topic.

Several objects of great interest were donated by the late Nicholas Dürr from his personal collection. These include two Islamic polyhedral weights for 50 dirhams (fig. 23) and 20 dirhams. The special interest of these weights is their material, iron, which had not previously been known as a material for Islamic metal multiple coin weights, although medieval texts refer to iron weights. Dürr also donated a little clay object (fig. 24), impressed with a bird in the center and the inscription “this is the stamp of ‘Alī and ‘Ubayd Allāh.” There is no hole through the object as is found in a bula, and its purpose is unknown.

The major South Asian accessions were gifts totalling 427 pieces from Charles K. Panish, including a major series of issues of the Indian state of Haydarabad. Mr. Panish continued his faithful and indispensable service as volunteer consultant for South Asian coins, and the two departments also had generous volunteer help from Kenneth MacKenzie, Judith Kolbas, and Barbara Gombach. (Bates)

FAR EASTERN

The Far Eastern department is once again indebted to its friends for the bulk of its new acquisitions in 1984. Of the 58 coins and paper notes acquired, only five were purchased; the rest came as gifts. Among the donors were Dr. Eddy Li, Sydney Rothstein, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saxe and Dr. Che-Lu Tseng. From Mr. Rothstein, the department received a handsome 5 rin (1899) bronze pattern of the 32nd year of Meiji Japan (fig. 25). Dr. Tseng donated 16 copper cash coins to the department, all of them from the province of Xinjiang (Sinkiang) and all lacking from the ANS collection. Two examples from the group are illustrated here—a

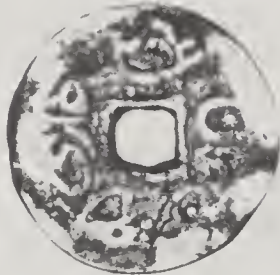

Qing dynasty Qian Long (1736-96), a cash piece from the Ushi mint (fig. 26), and one cash piece from the Kouldja mint issued during the time of the Rebel Ghazi Rashid (1862-67; fig. 27). Also from Dr. Tseng

27

is an uncommon cloth note of 40 cents in denomination issued by the Urumchi mint in Xinjiang. Although the note is in rather poor condition, it is still possible to decipher the inscription on its obverse (the reverse is blank). It is dated to the 12th year of the Republic, i. e. 1923 (fig. 28).

The five purchases made by the department include a set of four gold and silver coins struck by the China mint in 1983 in commemoration of Marco Polo and his visits to China in the late thirteenth and early fourteenth centuries (fig. 29). A gold proof coin from Hong Kong struck in 1984, the year of the rat, constitutes the ninth in the continuing series of gold legal tender in commemoration of the twelve year cycle of the ancient Chinese or Lunar Calendar (fig. 30). (Houston)

MEDIEVAL

From the recently discovered Agrigento hoard of Islamic and Norman gold coins, the medieval department has acquired two taris of the first two Norman rulers of Sicily. The earlier is of Robert Guiscard and is dated 464 of the Hijra era (A. D. 1071/2; fig. 31). It follows closely the coins of the Islamic rulers from whom Robert had wrested Sicily, including a recognition of Muhammad as the Prophet. The other tari acquired is of Robert's brother, Roger I (fig. 32). Unlike previously published examples of this rare type, the date on this specimen is clearly legible as 466 H., the first year of Roger's reign as Count of Sicily.

Another purchase was a parcel of 70 Venetian grossi of doge Antonio Venier (1382-1400), presumed to be from a hoard of eastern Mediterranean origin. Among the 22 coins with mint master's mark were most of the initials reported in the Corpus Nummorum Italicorum (vol. 7, pp. 106-9), plus three grossi with the mint mark C (fig. 33), known previously only from soldini, and one with the mint mark E (fig. 34), hitherto unknown from this reign. Another important addition to our cabinet is a gift of Mark M. Salton (fig. 35). This ort, or quarter thaler, of Sigismund III of Poland dated 1620, is not only the earliest coin of this denomination in our strong holdings of Polish coinage, but is of an apparently unpublished type. Other donors to the medieval collection included Antoinette Bosco, Henry Grunthal, Dr. Philip J. More, Emil Polak, William F. Spengler, and Russel Trenholme. (Stahl)

MODERN

The Society's holdings in modern coins and currency grew by nearly 1,500 pieces this year. These included 114 coins struck by forces loyal to the deposed James II in Ireland in 1689-90, called Gun Money because of the unusual metallic composition from which they were struck. This accession came to us by purchase, as did the rare 25 mils of 1948, the first issue of the State of Israel. This piece essentially completes our holdings in the coinage of that country.

Our other accessions this year came to us as gifts. From the estate of Katharina Rothchild we received 144 European gold coins of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, mainly from France and the congeries of states making up the Second Reich (fig. 36—twenty francs, 1850). Robert L. and Marie Saxe contributed 108 modern European copper and silver coins, while Russel Trenholme's welcome donation of 628 pieces of modern world paper money greatly strengthened our holdings in that area.

But the outstanding gift to the modern cabinet came from Juan Suros, M. D., who also added notably to the Western Hemisphere collection this year. This was a donation of 296 Spanish twentieth-century coins, including a virtually complete collection of the scarce issues of the Civil War (1936-39; fig. 37—two pesetas, 1937). Added to our previous holdings, Dr. Suros's pieces mean that the Society now has the most complete collection of modern Spanish coins outside of Spain itself.

Other donors to the modern cabinet included Brian G. Wills, Mrs. Berna Sampson, John Oakley, the firm of Sidney W. Smith and Sons, and Richard Doty. (Doty)

WESTERN HEMISPHERE

In the Society's Latin American department, many traditionally active donors were represented, as well as some outstanding new ones. Howard Herz was once again notable this year, with gifts of Peruvian and Bolivian materials. Louis and David Hudson were also represented, by the donation of a rare, unlisted private bank note, used in Paraguay by Argentine occupation forces in the early 1870s. Antoinette Bosco's gift of an 1827 Bolivian four sol piece, from the first year of issue, has filled an important gap in our collection, as did the addition of five Brazilian coins of the mid-nineteenth century, from the estate of R. Henry Norweb.

But some outstanding new donors have also come forth. Dr. Juan Suros gave the Society a splendid collection of Peruvian and Bolivian colonial coinage, of the half real (fig. 38, 1825), real (fig. 39, 1826), two real, and four real denominations. The collection is notable for its quality, and we are particularly grateful for the strength it adds in the four real category, an area in which the Society has been rather weak (figs. 40, 1655 and 41, 1770). The donations of Peter and Dwight Patch also deserve mention: their gifts of modern Uruguayan patterns opened up a fascinating new area, one not previously well represented in Society holdings (fig. 42, fifty pesos, 1968).

In United States materials, we acquired a unique die trial of the small eagle Washington Cent, representing a stage in the reverse die's production prior to the addition of the denomination (fig. 43). Our other American accessions came about as the results of gifts. From Mid-American Rare Coin Auctions, Inc. came a rare Vermont cent, of the Ryder 29 variety (fig. 44), which increases the quality of our already sizable holdings in the coinage of that country.

Some of our most interesting acquisitions this year have been in a field in which we previously had no representation whatsoever. In mid-summer, the Society sent out an appeal for donations of small-sized national bank notes, those issued from 1929 to 1935. Thus far, response has been very encouraging, with notes from about a dozen banks having come in. Donors here have included Forman Enterprises, Ltd. (fig. 45, half size), Harry E. Jones, A. C. Leister, Thomas E. Werner, Jay M. Galst, M. D., Charles G. Colver, Beebe's, Inc., J. Roy Pennell, Jr.,

45

and Stephen Tebo. An additional donation of Canadian national bank notes from A. M. Kagin complemented these accessions. Other donors to the department included Blanchard Hiatt and Robert Korver. (Doty)

MEDALS AND DECORATIONS

Outstanding among this year's more than 400 additions to the medals and decorations collection is a uniface silver medal purchased with the help of a gift from Henry Grunthal (fig. 46). This splendid example of multiple portraiture depicts the Emperor Charles V with his son Philip II, his son-in-law Maximilian II, and his daughter Mary. Dated to about 1550, this rare piece is attributed to Leone Leoni or his school.

Another interesting early German medal is a gift of Mark M. Salton (fig. 47). This anonymous piece portrays King David kneeling before the sword of God on the obverse and offers a prayer for peace on the reverse. The date of 1630 derived from the chronogram in the obverse legend identifies the two-fold purpose of the medal as a wish for peace in the midst of the Thirty Years War and a commemoration of the centennial of the Augsburg Confession of Martin Luther.

In appreciation for its support of the competition for this year's World

Food Day medal of the Food and Agriculture Organization, the ANS cabinet received a gift of previous issues from the United Nations agency. Among these is a medal of the Ceres collection of medals of distinguished women of our time, which portrays the American social activist Gloria Steinem and was sculpted by Elizabeth Jones, Chief Engraver of the United States mint (fig. 48).

Once again, Michael Kirk made substantial contributions to the collection, including 19 decorations of the Republic of India. Another important addition was the gift of 19 medals of Louis XIV and Louis XV of France by Dr. George M. Golden. Gene Bowles donated seven medals of the Belgian medallists Hippolyte Leroy and Godefroid Devreese. Other contributors to the collection included Antoinette Bosco, Catherine Bullova-Moore, William J. Carr, Scott H. Miller, Milton B. Pfeffer, Kalman Renner, Leon S. Rosenblum, Mrs. Marion G. Russell, and Thomas C. Wilfred. (Stahl)

EXHIBITIONS

October 1, 1983 was the opening day for the First Exhibition of Medallic and Bas-Relief Sculpture, organized by the American Medallic

First Exhibition of Medallic and Bas-Relief Sculpture at the ANS.

Sculpture Association and co-sponsored by the ANS. The catalogue of this first major exhibition of American medallic art in decades was awarded the first annual prize for exhibit catalogues by the Numismatic Literary Guild. After two successful months in the ANS East Hall, the show moved to the ANA headquarters in Colorado Springs and the Old Mint Museum in San Francisco.

In January and February the East Hall held a show of 1983 Saltus Award winner Guido Veroi, including plaques and graphics as well as medals. The ANS hosted the competition for the 1984 World Food Day medal of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations and, in August and September, had an exhibition of designs submitted for this competition.

In the course of this year, Mr. Stahl mounted a new exhibition of medals and decorations from the Society's collection which will be displayed in the East Hall between temporary shows. A noteworthy feature of this installation is an exhibit of all 48 medals issued by the ANS, from the 1866 Lincoln medal to last year's 125th anniversary plaque. (Stahl)

LOANS

Three major loans of ANS material were completed during the year. The Society lent coins of Queen Victoria and medals of Charles Dickens to "The Dickens Festival," an exhibition mounted by the Snug Harbor Cultural Center, Staten Island. The material was displayed at the Governor's Office of this well-known cultural center and museum complex.

Four medals from the ANS played a prominent role in an exhibition of major proportions presented under the auspices of the National Museum of Man (Le Musee National de l'Homme) in Ottawa, Canada. Four Indian Peace Medals (of Charles IV of Spain, Louis XV, James Monroe, and the Astor Fur Trading Company) travelled with the exhibition "Brightening the Covenant Chain: Indian Ceremonial and Trade Silver." The exhibit visited Ottawa, Calgary, Victoria, Winnipeg, Montreal, and Toronto as well as several museums in the United States, including the Museum of the American Indian-Heye Foundation in New York and the National Museum of Natural History, Washington, between its opening in August, 1980 and its closing at the Royal Ontario Museum in January.

An exhibit entitled "New York and the China Trade" was presented by the New York Historical Society. The show, lasting from February

1984 until August 26, 1984, displayed nine select pieces lent by the ANS. Playing an instrumental part in the theme of the exhibition were coins such as: Great Britain, Trade Dollar, 1903; Republic of Bolivia, 8 soles, 1848; and Philippines (US), 1 peso, 1890. (Rock)

The Library

The past year saw the library move a step closer to the computerization of its operations when it was demonstrated in a detailed consultant's report that such a course was indeed feasible. The report describes an integrated library system which includes ordering, accessioning, cataloguing, binding and name/subject authority file capabilities. The proposed system would eliminate many repetitive tasks presently performed by the library staff since much of the data recorded when an item is ordered by the library need not be recorded again during accessioning and cataloguing of the item. Moreover, inquiry of the proposed system would be greatly facilitated through use of the specialized list of subject headings employed by the library. These headings would make possible the routine printing of topical bibliographies. Author/title inquiries would also be possible. Upon selection of a programmer to implement the system and the resolution of certain problems concerning the conversion of catalogue records to computer-readable form, the library will be ready to enter a new era of computerized operations.

Preparation of the list of subject headings mentioned above together with its revision and standardization has been a major undertaking of the library for several years supported by funding obtained from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Following review of this grant project during the past year, the Endowment chose to provide funding for its continuance through mid-1987. Therefore, the project staff is proceeding with compilation of the list and has thus far revised some 5,000 headings and related cross-references. Revisions made have included standardization of heading subdivisions and the creation of hundreds of geographical and topical subdivisions under headings deemed too general in nature. The specificity of the headings created by such subdivision allows the researcher to locate topics of interest without having to search through large blocks of library catalogue cards. Moreover, the framework created by the list of headings provides our cataloguer, Ms. D'Ambrosio, with a vehicle for selection and expansion of headings. A new feature of the project introduced during the year is a computer program designed specifically for entering and manipulating data pertaining to the subject heading list. The program is run on the Society's computer and permits library staff to enter data pertaining to subject headings. The new program will prove especially useful to library staff in compiling a concordance of ANS and Library of Congress subject headings in the area of numismatics.

Among the year's notable acquisitions is a significant addition to the series Sylloge Nummorum Graecorum from the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris. This first contribution to the series from France is a catalogue of the remarkable collection of ancient Greek coins formed by Jean and Marie Delepierre. Especially strong in the coinage of Elis, Syracuse, Athens, Crete and western Asia Minor, this sylloge includes a total of some 3,130 gold and silver coins. In what promises to be a comprehensive survey of Greek Sicilian bronze coins, Romolo Calciati has completed the first volume of his Corpus Nummorum Siculorum; La monetazione di bronzo. Calciati describes and illustrates some 2,500 coins in this volume, which will soon be accompanied by two additional tomes.

With his revised edition of Roman Imperial Coinage, Volume I, originally published in 1923, Humphrey Sutherland has updated and augmented a basic reference for the scholar/numismatist. The volume treats the coinage of the period 31 B. C. to A. D. 69 and incorporates the findings of studies on the Julio-Claudian coinage published since the original edition. An extensive collection of Roman imperial coins struck at the Mint of Alexandria in Egypt and now housed at the University of Cologne has been fully published with the appearance of the fourth and fifth volumes of Katalog alexandrinischer Kaisermünzen der Sammlung des Instituts für Altertumskunde der Universität zu Köln, by Angelo Geissen and Wolfram Weiser. The period covered by the entire five volume catalogue extends from the reign of Augustus (27 B. C.) to that of Domitian (297/8). The production of the Roman mint of Lugdunum (Lyon) from its origin to the reign of Caligula is thoroughly analyzed by Jean-Baptiste Giard in his Le monnayage de l'atelier de Lyon des origines au règne de Caligula (43 avant J.-C. — 41 après J.-C.). Following the pattern set by Pierre Bastien, who has produced some six volumes devoted to the later history of this mint, Giard discusses the mint's foundation and organization, the classification of its issues and their chronology, and the metrology of the coins. In The Cunetio Treasure; Roman Coinage of the Third Century AD, the largest known find of Roman coins discovered in Britain is analyzed by Edward Besly and Roger Bland. The authors examine the hoard's archaeological background, publish a detailed catalogue of the find, and offer comparisons with other hoards of the period. Consisting of 54,951 coins, the hoard spans the period 193 to 274.

The Royal Numismatic Society, London, has recently published what has been described as the "first serious catalogue of Crusader coinage" since Schlumberger's Numismatique de l'Orient Latin, which appeared in 1878. Entitled Coinage of the Crusades and the Latin East in the Ashmolean Museum Oxford, this "Special publication" of the Society is by D. M. Metcalf. It records, in sylloge format, a well-rounded collection of some 870 coins. The work should prove an essential reference for study of the many varieties of west European coins, gold bezants, helmet deniers of Antioch, early gros of Cyprus, and deniers tournois of Frankish Greece found in the Latin East. In Les monnayages étrangers des Princes Luxembourgeois, Raymond Weiller has catalogued the issues of the House and county of Luxembourg struck in an area extending from the Low Countries and France to Hungary and Poland. E. R. Duncan Elias has done the same for the coins of the Plantagenet and Lancastrian kings struck on the continent and especially in Aquitaine in The Anglo-Gallic Coins. This work will undoubtedly supersede Lionel M. Hewlett's Anglo-Gallic Coins, published some 60 years ago. Gernod Schnee's Sächsische Taler, 1500-1800... represents the first attempt in almost a century to compile a corpus of talers and multiple talers of Saxony. Schnee describes and illustrates some 1,189 coins.

The Austrian numismatist Robert Göbl has brought together his researches on Kushan coinage carried out during the past quarter century in a major opus entitled System und Chronologie der Münzprägung des Kusanreiches. Göbl establishes the evolution and sequence of the coinage of the Kushan Empire beginning with Vima Kadphises and ending with the dissolution of the various late Kushan parts of the empire. One of the most important collections of Islamic gold to be found in private hands is now published under the title The Coinage of Islam; Collection of William Kazan. Published by the Bank of Beirut, this lavishly illustrated volume represents a remarkable numismatic record of Muslim achievement. The Coinage of Aksum, by S. C. Munro-Hay, represents the most detailed study of Axumite coinage to appear for some time. The author examined a far greater number of coins than previous researchers in this thorough account of the subject, which traces the coinage from the late third century to the middle of the seventh century.

Among the major contributions to the literature on medals, there is Renaissance Medals and Plaquettes, a catalogue prepared by Ulrich Middeldorf and Dagmar Stiebral. The 97 medals listed represent a private, unnamed collection which has been excellently reproduced through the photography of Mario Carrieri. The catalogue is divided chronologically into sections treating the medals of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. The arrangement within each of these sections is alphabetic by artist's name. In Australian Commemorative Medals and Medalets from 1788, Leslie Carlisle attempts to record the complete series of these pieces in one volume. His work contains 1,200 photographic reproductions accompanying the text in which are included the details of striking and the histories of the medals.

It is always a pleasure to recall the generosity of those who have made donations to either the library's book purchase fund or to the collection itself in the form of books, journals, and other publications. A generous donation received from the Bass Foundation has enabled the library to purchase certain items at auction, expand the binding program, and acquire a number of reprints as part of the ongoing conservation program. Dr. Jack Barb and Richard Margolis have given many auction catalogues and periodicals, filling several gaps in our holdings. Earl Moore donated personal papers, photographs, and rubbings formerly belonging to Adam Pietz, an Assistant Chief Engraver of the United States Mint, and Catherine Bullowa-Moore presented a number of fine volumes to the collection, among which was included a good run of Heath's "Counterfeit Detector."

The Photography Department

The primary function of the Society's Photography department is to supply, on request, photographs of specimens in the ANS collection. The department also provides technical advice to scholars on various aspects of the specialized photography of numismatic material. During the period of the Graduate Seminar, department staff provided formal instruction to the students on photography. Emphasis was placed on the varying conditions likely to be encountered by numismatic scholars photographing in the field.

For several years the Society has required that a copy of each publication in which ANS-produced reproductions appear be presented to the Library. This has resulted in additions to the collection which otherwise might not have been procured. In addition to books, the department continued support for a variety of exhibition catalogues, articles, and research projects as well as providing color slides for staff and customer use in illustrating numismatic talks. The guide Photographic Services is available on request and outlines ordering procedures, current photography rates and permission required for reproducing Society photographic property.

Production statistics for the department during the past year included 3,343 objects photographed, for which prints were supplied in varying quantities. In addition, 1,833 slides were produced, including 1,598 in color. Finally, a total of 998 negatives from the existing collection was printed to meet customer needs. The department also regularly photographs all of the Society's acquisitions for permanent record.

Publications

All members of the Society receive, as a perquisite of membership, the Society's journal, ANS Museum Notes, the ANS Newsletter, issued quarterly, and the Annual Report. In addition, members are eligible to enter a Publications Subscription annually to receive all publications issued in the following series: Numismatic Notes and Monographs; Numismatic Studies; Numismatic Literature; and Ancient Coins in North American Collections. For 1984, the cost of the Subscription was $45. All Society publications are also available for purchase individually and NL, the semiannual abstract bibliography, by separate subscription. A list of current publications in print is available on request.

During the past year, all members received ANSMN 28 containing ten articles on a wide range of subjects, the Annual Report for the period ending September 30, 1983, and four issues of the ANS Newsletter. In March NL 110 (September 1983) was distributed, edited by Rebecca Akers who joined the staff in August 1983. Its delay is attributable to the frequent turnover in editors during the past several years and also led to the decision to publish a combined issue of NL, nos. 111/112 (March/September 1984), distributed in September.

In addition to issues of NL, subscribers for 1984 received Early Greek Coins from the Collection of Jonathan P. Rosen, by Nancy M. Waggoner (AC-NAC 5), which was also sent to 1983 subscribers and The Coinage of Metapontum, Parts 1 and 2, a revised and expanded edition by Ann Johnston of the two books by Sydney P. Noe published by the Society in 1927 and 1931. This is the first work published in the new format which the Society will now use for most of its publication series. Subscribers will also receive The Venetian Torneseello, a Medieval Colonial Coinage, by Alan M. Stahl (ANSNNM 163); and The Arthur S. Dewing Collection of Greek Coins (AC-NAC 6), compiled by a team of scholars under the editorial direction of Leo Mildenberg and Silvia Hurter.

On February 1, Sallie Fried joined the Society's staff as Assistant Editor, replacing Marie Martin who resigned in December to join a corporate firm. Dr. Fried received her degree in classical archaeology from Brown University in 1982. She participated in the Society's 1980 Graduate Seminar and was awarded the ANS Graduate Fellowship for the year 1981/2. Also in early February, the Society took delivery of a new Compugraphic 8400 photocomposition facility, with specially designed type fonts required for production of NL. Acquisition of this equipment was based in large part on the research and negotiations conducted by Dr. Martin during the past two years. Both Assistant Editors attended a one-week course on operation of the equipment which is used to produce a variety of Society publications, including the Annual Report and Newsletters, in addition to NL.

Publications in press or in preparation at the close of the period include ANSMN 29 (1984), containing 14 articles; ANSMN 30 (1985), with 10 contributions; Numismatic Literature 113 (March 1985); and American Numismatic Society, 1958-1983, by William E. Metcalf. In addition, two booklets are being published by the Society to accompany slide sets issued in conjunction with the 1984 Coinage of the Americas Conference on the subject America's Copper Coinage, 1783-1857. The papers of the conference will also be published by the ANS, composed in-house.

Members and friends of the Society are reminded that past ANS publications are welcomed as donations.

THE DONALD GROVES FUND

In April the Society's Council accepted an anonymous contribution to establish The Donald Groves Fund to promote research and publication in the field of early American numismatics, involving material dated no later than 1800. Funding is available for travel and other expenses in association with research, and publication costs.

Applications for support are welcome, addressed to the Secretary of the ANS, and should include an outline of the proposed research project, the method of accomplishing the research, funding requested and the specific uses to which the funds are to be put. Applications will also be considered for publication support for manuscripts on topics meeting the fund's criteria. Applications are reviewed periodically by The Donald Groves Fund Committee which makes its recommendations to the Society's Council.

The Archer M. Huntington Medal Award

The sixty-third award of the Archer M. Huntington Medal recognizing outstanding achievement in numismatic scholarship was awarded to Herbert A. Cahn of Basel, Switzerland. The medal was presented to Dr. Cahn at the Society's Annual Meeting on January 14, 1984, at which Cornelius Vermeule read the following citation prepared by the Huntington Committee:

Scion of an old Frankfurt numismatic family, for more than forty years Herbert Cahn has been a moving spirit of ancient numismatics and the other arts of antiquity in Basel. His family firm, Münzen und Medaillen A. G., has been a leader in authoring scholarly catalogues and special lists for ancient coins and Greek, Etruscan, and Roman art. For generations, Herbert Cahn has been the leader of these activities. His firm's foundation has supported research and publications by others.

He has served as an editor of Antike Kunst and, more recently, of Revue Suisse de Numismatique, Schweizer Münzblätter and the CIN Newsletter as well as a founder of the Museum of Ancient Art in Basel. He was also a founder and Secretary of the International Association of Professional Numismatists. As a teacher he has been no less active, giving seminars in numismatics at Heidelberg for many years.

In addition to many major catalogues and articles in learned journals, Herbert Cahn has written basic numismatic studies of Sicilian Naxos (1944) and Knidos in archaic and classical times (1970), also a pioneering monograph on Greek coins in the Archaic period (1947). He was one of the two editors of the honorary volume for Roland Hampe (1980) and his own shorter writings were collected in a volume edited by Hans Christoph Ackermann and published by P. von Zabern in 1975.

Above all, it is as a person who has viewed the science of ancient numismatics from many aspects that we honor Herbert Adolph Cahn.

In acknowledging the award Dr. Cahn addressed the meeting as follows:

With deep gratitude I hold in my hands the Archer Huntington Medal. Like most of my predecessors of this great honor I really feel that I did not do enough to deserve it. The list of my publications is so meager and the yearly output much smaller than my expectations and hopes. At the same time I am, of course, proud of the award, especially to be the first Swiss to receive it.

Please allow me to mention those teachers who shaped me as a numismatist and as an archaeologist who are no longer with us; I extend my gratitude to their memory: Julius Cahn, my uncle, under whose wing I started collaborating on coin catalogues as early as 1928; Willy Schwabacher, my cousin, who introduced me, in the late 1920s, to Greek coinage and particularly to the methods of die comparison; Kurt Regling who allowed me in 1930 and 1932 to work in the magnificent Berlin collection; Ernst Langlotz and Ernst Pfuhl, my university teachers; Heinrich Hirsch, Jacob Hirsch and Leonard Forrer Sr. as coin dealers; after graduation—Andreas Alföldi, Paul Jacobsthal and John Beazley; and finally in my own generation three friends, younger than I, Konrad Kraft, Colin Kraay and Otto Mørkholm; their friendly advice and sharp criticism have always been a good lesson for me and it is sad to miss them.

Well, I do not intend to put the medal in my collection but to keep it as a memento to continue numismatic research, particularly in conjunction with the historical study of ideas, art and economics, being always aware of the fact that our field is getting more and more isolated from neighboring disciplines. Numismatic teaching in universities is steadily reduced, mainly due to financial restrictions in the education systems of our Western democracies. Familiarity with coins becomes less and less common amongst historians and archaeologists and our own knowledge in these matters is often patchy. I see another danger in our sometimes blind belief in statistical and scientific methods of research which are not familiar to us.

The ANS, as a private institution unique in the numismatic world, is the ideal instrument to counteract these dangers by its collecting, book collecting, publishing and teaching activities. I am particularly proud to feel at home in these rooms and to receive the Huntington medal.

Thank you ladies and gentlemen, thank you, Leslie, for efficiency and courtesy; thank you, the three Charities of the Greek section, Margaret, Nancy and Carmen, for all their advice and help, thank you, Bill, for generosity and inspiration; thank you, Mike, for lively collaboration at the International Numismatic Commission, and thank you, all the other members of the ANS staff, for all your hospitality.

A complete listing of past recipients of the Archer M. Huntington Medal Award will be found on p. 70.

The J. Sanford Saltus Medal Award

The thirty-second award of the J. Sanford Saltus Medal for distinguished achievement in the field of the art of the medal was awarded to Guido Veroi of Rome, Italy. The medal was presented to Mr. Veroi in absentia at the Society's Annual Meeting on January 14, 1984, at which Karen Worth of the Saltus Award Committee read the following citation on behalf of the committee:

What appealed to the Saltus Committee about the work of Guido Veroi is his success at blending classical forms with a modern approach and emerging with a body of work that is consistently personal and of high quality. Throughout his work, the influence of the Italian renaissance medal is always felt, sometimes as a conscious allusion and sometimes as an underlying basis for the whole conception of the commemorative medal. The personality of the subject is always the primary concern of his portrait medals, both through the perceptive likeness of the portrait and through the emblematic references on the reverse. Yet Veroi is able to use the classical bases for work that is always fresh and free. There is no suggestion of academic following of outdated forms in his work; his approach is always original and spontaneous. Throughout Veroi's medallic work is a consistency of style that makes his creations recognizable, yet never monotonous. An outstanding aspect of Veroi's art is his sense of composition; his scenes are often of great movement, but always fit gracefully into the circular field of the medal.

Veroi is a true renaissance man. Trained as a civil engineer, he has studied medallic sculpture with Pietro Giampaoli, as well as relief sculpture with Publio Morbiducci and ceramics with Enzo Assenza. He has designed coins for Italy (including the first 500 lire piece), San Marino, and the Vatican. He has been awarded the Primo Premio for his philatelic design, and his designs for stained glass windows have been widely esteemed. His exposition on the process of medallic design for the journal Medaglia in 1971 is regarded as a classic. He is truly the type of sculptor who brings prestige to medallic art and a worthy recipient of the Saltus Award.

In accepting the award on behalf of Mr. Veroi, Alan Stahl read the following letter which had been received:

I have received your kind letter of October 8 last advising that I have been named the 1983 recipient of the J. Sanford Saltus Medal Award by the American Numismatic Society.

I am very pleased to accept the honor as well as to understand I am the first artist outside the United States to be presented the Saltus Award.

I very much regret not to be able to personally receive the award in New York City, but I want to express my appreciation for the recognition which is one of the most distinctive achievements of my artistic life.

I hope to have the opportunity to visit the United States in the future and thus to have the pleasure to meet all of you personally.

In the meantime, please accept my best regards and wishes.

A complete listing of past recipients of the J. Sanford Saltus Medal Award will be found on p. 71.

Educational Activities

THE GRADUATE SEMINAR

The Graduate Seminar in Numismatics has been conducted at the Society since 1952. The seminar emphasizes the importance of numismatics both as a discipline in its own right and as an ancillary research tool in the study of history, archaeology, and other fields. The program includes lectures and discussions by specialists in various areas; these are designed to provide a broad introduction to numismatics and to illustrate the application of various methodologies to specific problems. During the course of the seminar each student pursues a topic of his choice based on materials in the Society's cabinet and library, and during the final week the results of this research are presented orally.

The thirty-second Graduate Seminar was held at the Society's museum from June 12 to August 11, 1984, under the direction of William E. Metcalf, Chief Curator of the Society. Eight students from eight universities were in attendance. The Visiting Scholar in residence was Michel Amandry, Conservator at the Cabinet des Médailles, Bibliothèque Nationale, Paris. The program included 27 conferences conducted by specialists in various areas; at least one session was led by each member of the Society's curatorial staff. They were joined by Pierre C. V. Bastien, Cranberry, NJ; Giles F. Carter, Professor of Chemistry, Eastern Michigan University; Michael DiBiase, ANS Photographer; Peter P. Gaspar, Professor of Chemistry, Washington University; Fred S. Kleiner, Associate Professor of Art History, Boston University; Eric P. Newman, St. Louis, MO; Elizabeth J. Rock, Professor of Chemistry, Wellesley College; Margaret Thompson, Chief Curator Emeritus; and Leslie Beer Tobey, Marblehead, MA.

The students in attendance, together with their affiliations and topics of research, were: Irving T. Gumb (Institute of Fine Arts, NYU), "The Portrait of Agrippa on Roman Coinage"; William Edwin Mierse (Brown University), "The Temple of Augustus at Tarragona: Symbolic or Actual Representation?"; Carla J. Oakes (University of Iowa), "Third Century Hoarding Behavior: Comparison of Hoards from FMRD and Site Finds"; George E. Pesely (SUNY, Buffalo), "The Fourth-Century Nymph Head Drachms of Sinope"; Martha K. Risser (University of Pennsylvania), "The Origin of South Italian Incuse Coinage"; Lenore M. Rouse (Fordham University), "The F REX Coins of Leon and Castile"; Saleh K. Sari (University of Michigan), "The Copper Fulus of Aleppo under the Ummayyads and Early 'Abbāsids; Joseph B. Scholten (University of California, Berkeley), "The Chronology of Aetolian League Gold and Silver Coinage."

The Seminar is conducted annually at the museum, and is open to graduate students and junior faculty members affiliated with North American colleges and universities. Admission carries with it a stipend of $1,200. for the summer. Grants in support of attendance are made possible by a generous donation from Mr. and Mrs. Eric P. Newman. The deadline for application is March 1.

THE GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP

Since 1958 the American Numismatic Society has awarded dissertation fellowships to qualified students in the humanities and social sciences.

The fellowship for 1984/5 has been awarded to Jane DeRose Evans of the University of Pennsylvania, whose dissertation topic is "The Early Legends of Rome in the Political Propaganda of the Republic and Augustan Periods." Ms. Evans is an alumna of the 1983 Graduate Seminar.

The Graduate Fellowship carries a stipend of $3,500. and is awarded annually. Applications are accepted from students who have completed the general examinations (or the equivalent) for the doctorate; who will be writing dissertations in which the use of numismatic evidence plays a significant part; and who have attended one of the Society's Graduate Seminars. The Council reserves the right to waive the last requirement in special cases. The deadline for application is March 1.

PUBLIC LECTURES

At the regular Fall Meeting of the Society held on October 8, 1983, John H. Dryfhout, Curator of the Saint-Gaudens National Historic Site, delivered the David M. Bullowa Memorial Lecture. The subject of his illustrated address was "Coin Designs of Augustus Saint-Gaudens."

The Annual Meeting of the Society, held on January 14, 1984, was the occasion for illustrated reports on outstanding accessions of the year. Members of the Society's staff taking part in the presentations included: Mr. Bates, Curator of Islamic Coins; Mr. Doty, Curator of Modern Coins; Mrs. Houston, Associate Curator of Far Eastern Coins; Mr. Metcalf, Curator of Roman and Byzantine Coins; Mr. Stahl, Associate Curator of Medieval Coins; and Mrs. Waggoner, Curator of Greek Coins.

At the Spring Meeting of the Society, held on April 14, 1984, James Packer, Professor of Classics at Northwestern University in Evanston, IL, delivered the Joseph B. and Morton M. Stack Memorial Lecture. The subject of his illustrated address was "Trajan's Arch in Trajan's Forum: The Numismatic and Archaeological Evidence for a New Restoration."

EDUCATIONAL SLIDE PROGRAM

The Educational Slide Program of the American Numismatic Society, designed primarily as a visual aid to instruction in the general fields of history and art history, comprises series paralleling the general chronological divisions of history. Each series includes a number of slides depicting the coinage and is accompanied by a booklet containing an illustration of each slide and descriptive commentary on the individual coins and their historical significance. The commentary is also designed to provide the basis for discussion in areas of specific interest.

Two series in the Educational Slide Program are currently available. Series no. 1, Greek-General, includes a general survey of the Greek material from the inception of coinage in the latter half of the seventh century to the first century B. C. Series no. 2, Roman-General, is devoted to the Roman issues from the crude bronze of the third century B. C. through Diocletian's reformed coinage of the late third century A. D.

In addition, two audio-visual packages are available from the Society. "Coinage of the Americas," containing a tape cassette and 41 color slides, traces the development of New World coinage from the period of Spanish exploration to the present day. "Money in Early America," also comprising a tape cassette and 41 color slides, provides a survey of the use of money and money substitutes in Colonial America, the evolution of paper money economy, and the development of federal responsibility for coinage.

The Handbook series recently inaugurated by the Society features attractively covered guides to areas of the collections with emphasis on readable text and ample illustration. Handbooks are available separately or in a boxed deluxe edition which includes color slides depicting the objects described in the text. To date, two Handbooks are available, Roman Medallions by William E. Metcalf, with 24 color slides, and Islamic Coins by Michael L. Bates, with 36 color slides.

THE ANS PHOTO FILE

For many years, the American Numismatic Society has maintained a file of photographs culled from auction and sales catalogues. This photo file now includes over 500,000 illustrations of the coinage of ancient Greece, Rome, and Byzantium, and is frequently consulted by scholars and other interested individuals either seeking to study coins in private collections or to trace the recent history of individual coins as they have passed from collection to collection.

During the past year, a new file was begun to incorporate the Islamic and Medieval departments into this resource. The new file will include all hammer-struck European, Islamic and South Asian coins, as well as coins of such related groups as Sasanian, Kushan and Axumite. Contributions from several ANS supporters enabled the Society to hire Christine Ryba Curry on a part-time basis as editor of the new file.

In the past, Society members have donated out of print catalogues to fill the gaps in the ancient file. Old catalogues featuring Islamic and medieval coins are now also sought. The Society is extremely fortunate to receive current catalogues from dealers throughout the world, who generously provide copies in triplicate so that the files may be kept up to date. Volunteers are always needed to help identify, mount and file coin photographs for both files.

THE ANS CAST SERVICE

The American Numismatic Society's curatorial department maintains facilities for the making of plaster casts under the direction of Marlene Rock, Technician. Most casts are made of coins in our own collection for the benefit of scholars, students, and collectors who are working at a distance from New York. The service is also employed to record coins of unusual interest that are here for study only temporarily. Casting techniques are taught in the Graduate Seminar, and students as well as visiting scholars are welcome to work with our supplies and equipment. During the past year Miss Rock has experimented with several new techniques that permit more efficient production of finely-detailed reproductions.

Staff Activities

In October Mrs. Arnold attended the Second History Conference of Hudson Valley Colleges and Universities at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, NY. In the session "New Light on Ancient Greece," she gave a paper on "Greek Coinage of Sicily in the Fifth Century B.C.—The Evidence of a Coin Hoard." Mrs. Waggoner was a commentator on this and the other papers, which included a discussion of the economic life of Sparta in the Archaic and Classical periods. Her publications during the year included "Appunti sulla zecca di Messina," NumAntClas 12 (1983), pp. 49-64; "Busto monetale come Mercurio (Gallieno, Aureliano)," RIN 1983, pp. 73-85 (with P. Bastien); and a review of A. Hermary and V. Tatton-Brown, Amathonte II. Les sculptures découvertes avant 1975 in Gnomon 55 (1983). In February Mrs. Arnold was promoted to Assistant Curator of Ancient Coins.

During the past year Mr. Bates delivered papers at three scholarly meetings. In November, at the Annual Meeting of the Middle East Studies Association, in Chicago, he gave a paper on "Shī'ī Inscriptions on Fāṭimid and Būyid Coins," and in the following month at a symposium "Bahrain Through the Ages" in Manama he read "The Coinage of Mismār b. Salm," on some previously unpublished coins found on the mainland opposite Bahrain; this will be published in the proceedings of the symposium. In March, a discussion "Islamic Coins in Islamic History" was read for him in absentia at the Annual Meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in Washington, DC. Other lectures during the year included a talk on "Christians and Muslims in the Mediterranean" given to the Medieval Numismatic Society at the New York International Coin Convention; a discussion of the history of Islamic coinage for the students in Professor Robert McChesney's class in Middle Eastern history at New York University; and a public lecture on Islamic coinage at the Museum of Islamic Art, Kuwait. In March, Mr. Bates participated in the meeting of the governing Bureau of the International Numismatic Commission in Berlin and Dresden, German Democratic Republic. As consulting curator for an exhibit of Islamic art to open at the Musée Rath, Geneva, in June 1985, Mr. Bates spent a week in that city in January helping select coins for the exhibit and advising on their display. He continued his consultative role at the Museum of Islamic Arts, Kuwait National Museum, with a visit in May to install cabinets for the numismatic collection and began organization of the coins in trays, in collaboration with his assistant, Dr. Ramzi Bikhazi, who will be on the museum staff until the collection has been catalogued. Mr. Bates represented the ANS at the Annual Meeting of the Eastern Prime Users' Group in Baltimore in February. During the year he developed and programmed the system for the production of coin box labels from data stored in the ANS computer registry of coins. This year saw the publication of his entries "Dinar" and "Dirham" in Dictionary of the Middle Ages, ed. Joseph R. Strayer et al., New York, 1984.

During the period November 28—December 2, 1983, Mr. Campbell attended Comdex, a major computer software conference held in Las Vegas. The experience enabled him to see firsthand some recent advances in data base management software and their possible application to the library setting. Mr. Campbell continues to hold the position of Program Chairman of the Museums Council of New York City and as such heads the Membership Committee of the Council. During the past year the Membership Committee proposed five new institutions for membership, representing a variety of museum categories. On April 12th, Ms. D'Ambrosio and Mr. Campbell attended the National Online Meeting at the Sheraton Center, New York City, where they participated in sessions devoted to the selection of software for mini and micro-computers and the creation of computer-based name authority files.

In December Mr. Cuhaj delivered an illustrated lecture entitled "A Century of French Railroad Medals" during the educational forum at the New York International Numismatic Convention, and a week later he addressed the Westchester County Coin Club on railroad medals of the United States. In the spring he delivered a general talk on coins and collecting to the Queens College Collectors' Club. He was also elected to the membership committee of the New York Numismatic Club, and was presented the Bronze Literary Award of the Token and Medal Society for an article on the medals of James Cardinal Gibbons that appeared in the TAMS Journal in April, 1983. Mr. Cuhaj attended a week-long course for Prime Information System Administrators, and in May he represented the ANS at the annual meeting of the national Prime Users' Group in Orlando.

In October Mr. Doty presented a paper at the British Numismatic Society's Symposium on Matthew Boulton, held in Birmingham, England. His address, "Matthew Boulton and the Token," examined the token antecedents to Boulton's coinage as a way of understanding design and technological evolution within the latter series; it will be published in an upcoming BNS Journal. An amended version of this paper was also delivered at the Numismatic Theater of the 1984 American Numismatic Association convention, held in Detroit in August; Mr. Doty also represented the Society at that gathering. He is the recipient of a Fellowship for Museum Professionals, given by the National Endowment for the Arts. This grant will enable him to pursue his research on Matthew Boulton and the industrialization of coining methods in England and North Wales for three months next spring. In June Mr. Doty represented the Society at the Memphis Paper Money show, combining his stay there with a visit to the School of the Ozarks, Point Lookout, MO. He was invited to the latter institution in order to assist in the organization of an extensive collection of world coinage and obsolete American currency which is housed in the Ralph Foster Museum. He was thus able to continue his research into obsolete American paper money and to participate as well in the exciting preliminary steps in the formation of a numismatic cabinet. Several of Mr. Doty's articles have appeared in Coinage and elsewhere this year, the majority of them on United States coinage and currency. His final monograph on the North Carolina Railroad hoard appears in ANSMN 29 (1984). At the American Numismatic Association convention last August he received an award from the Numismatic Literary Guild for an article on decorations published early in 1984.

Mr. Elam represented the Society at two meetings of the American Council of Learned Societies held during the year, one a working session of the Conference of Secretaries held in Baltimore in November where topics of discussion included insurance planning and grants administration, a subject on which he made a brief presentation. At the ACLS annual meeting, held in New York in mid-April, the Conference focused on sources of funding support. Last October he went to Rochester for the annual meeting of the Museum Computer Network where attention was directed toward the development of in-house computer systems in museums and software specific to the needs of museums; and in December he directed the operation of the Society's Information Booth at the New York International Coin Convention, an opportunity accorded the ANS by the show's organizers. Finally, in March Mr. Elam traveled to Atlanta to participate in a joint ALI/ABA seminar on legal problems of museum administration.

Mrs. Houston gave a talk at the meeting of the International Bank Note Society in December, held in conjunction with the New York International Numismatic Convention. The subject of the talk was the paper currency of the Mongol dynasty (1260-1368). She also delivered a paper at the 36th annual meeting of the Association for Asian Studies in Washington, DC in March on the topic, "Coins in Chinese Society and Culture." She continues to serve as Chinese abstractor for Historical ### Abstracts.

Mr. Metcalf again delivered several lectures in various parts of the country. In the fall he participated in a seminar at Yale University conducted by Marsha B. McCoy, a student in the 1982 Graduate Seminar; shortly thereafter he spoke at the University Museum, Philadelphia, on the art of the Roman coin. In December he participated in the Educational Forum at the New York International Numismatic Convention, and in the same month he was one of four speakers at a symposium that focused on the Hunt collection of ancient art, then on display at the Virginia Museum, Richmond. In early March he delivered general lectures on Roman coinage, first to the general public and then to docents at the Tampa Museum. He represented the Society at the joint meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America and the American Philological Association held in Cincinnati December 27-30, 1983. Mr. Metcalf continued to work on coins from the excavations at Carthage; this work is expected to be completed soon. His only publication during the year was a review in the American Journal of Archaeology of R. Turcan's Numismatique romaine du culte métroaque (Leiden, 1982).

After joining the staff in January Miss Rock studied traditional techniques of coin casting, and then set out to discover more efficient methods. Her experimentation with silicone rubber molds has resulted in a faster procedure which achieves fine and detailed casts. She has also assisted in registering new acquisitions, editing the computerized accession history for consistency, and mounting temporary exhibitions. At the close of the period, she was working with Barbara Gombach, a Seminar alumna, on cleaning a hoard of some 800 Kushan coppers.

Mr. Stahl spent six weeks in Venice in the spring, as a recipient of a Gladys K. Delmas Fellowship, doing archival research for a projected book on the mint of Venice in the Middle Ages. While in Europe he gave papers at the Symposium on the Use of Scientific Techniques for Studying the Coinage of Europe and the Mediterranean World A. D. 500-1500, sponsored by the British Museum and the Royal Numismatic Society; and at the First Symposium on Problems of Medieval Coinage in the Iberian Area, held in Santarem, Portugal. In October he served as the Associate Head of the United States delegation to the Federation Internationale de la Médaille, and gave a paper at its biennial conference in Florence. In addition he gave talks at the meeting of the Center for Medieval and Early Renaissance Studies at SUNY Binghamton in October, at the Center for Medieval Studies of Fordham University in November, the Lithuanian Numismatic Association in December, the International Medallic Art Workshop at Pennsylvania State University in July, and in September the Medieval Studies Group of the University of Pennsylvania and the Economic History Association. In May he organized and chaired a session at the meeting of the Medieval Institute at Western Michigan University, which included a paper by ANS Graduate Seminar alumna Ruth Mazo. This year he assumed the offices of president of the American Medalllic Sculpture Association and vice-president of the New York Numismatic Club.

During the past year Mrs. Waggoner presented papers at three different meetings. Due to her inability to attend, her paper, "The Alexander Mint under Audoleon of Paeonia," was read by William E. Metcalf at the annual meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America held at Cincinnati in December. During a week's visit to London in the spring, she addressed the Royal Numismatic Society on the same topic and at a colloquium held March 23-24 at the British Museum she read a paper entitled "The Electrum Coins of Athens: Legacy from Asia Minor." The theme was a reconsideration of the earliest finds from the Archaic Temple of Artemis at Ephesus. During the fall term, Mrs. Waggoner taught the graduate seminar in Greek numismatics offered in alternate years by Columbia University. Her article, co-authored by John H. Kroll, "Dating the Earliest Coins of Athens, Corinth and Aegina," appeared in the July issue of the American Journal of Archaeology.

Visitors

This past year the Society again had the pleasure of welcoming many visitors from this country and abroad, scholars and old friends, students and new members who came to enjoy our facilities and study the collection. Professor Saul Weinberg, from the University of Missouri, Columbia, spent time identifying excavation coins and Pierre Bastien has become a regular visitor since moving to New Jersey from his native France. From abroad, Denyse Bérend of Paris continued her work on the gold coinage of Syracuse and Giovanni Gorini, from the University of Padova, Italy, spent a week with us examining South Italian and Illyrian coins. Also here from overseas were Simon Bendall, London, Herbert A. Cahn, Basel, Elisabeth and Robert E. Dorley-Doran, London, George Gauthier, Paris, Rika Gyselen, CNRS Paris, Peter Hammerich, Copenhagen, Malcom Hay, London, Silvia Hurter, Zurich, Leo Mildenberg, Zurich, G. Stuart Park, New Zealand, Georges Le Rider, Paris, J. I. Saenz, Spain and Clive Stannard, Rome.

The ANS has always enjoyed a very special and fruitful relationship with the Institute for advanced studies in Princeton; among its visiting members, Christof Boeringer, from Göttingen, spent the year finishing his corpus of coinage of Catana and paid several visits to the ANS. Others visiting the Institute included Jean-Baptiste Giard, from the Cabinet des Médailles in Paris, Miltiades Hatzopoulos, Athens, John Melville-Jones, Nedlands, Australia and S. Mitchell from South Wales. A. K. Narain, professor of Indian history at the University of Wisconsin and a specialist in Indian coinage, is in Princeton this year and has already started using our collection for his research.

The visiting lecturer for the 1984 graduate seminar was Michel Aman-dry, curator at the Cabinet des Médailles in Paris since 1978. He brought with him not only a very impressive knowledge of Greek and Roman coins, especially of the Roman provinces, but also a warm and open personality which delighted both students and staff. Many former seminar students returned to continue their work: Robert Bauslaugh, Barbara Baxter, Candace Carter, Jane Cody, Douglas Domingo-Foraste, Roger Fisher, Michael Garmaise, Barbara Gombach, Mark Jones, Linda Komaroff, Clayton Lehmann, Ralph Mathisen, Ruth Mazo, Denise Spellberg and Donald Whitcomb.

All of these contacts are a great pleasure to the Society and contribute to the liveliness of the museum and its leading role in numismatic research.

Accountants' Report

To the Council of

The American Numismatic Society:

We have examined the balance sheets of The American Numismatic Society (a New York not-for-profit corporation) as of September 30, 1984 and 1983, and the related statements of revenue, expenses and changes in fund balances for the years then ended. Our examinations were made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the financial position of the American Numismatic Society as of September 30, 1984 and 1983, and the results of its operations for the years then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a consistent basis.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

SEPTEMBER 30, 1984

(1) SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Accounting: The books of the Society are maintained and the accompanying financial statements have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting. Accordingly, revenue is recognized when earned and expenses when incurred. An exception to this is the recognition of income from trusts more fully explained in the note "Trust Income."

Investments: Investments in bonds are carried at cost or, if donated, at market value at the date of donation, as it is the Society's intention to hold such bonds until maturity. Investments in stocks are carried at the lower of cost or, if donated, at market at date of donation. However, an allowance for decline in market value is maintained for stocks, when the market value determined by utilizing year-end quoted market values falls below the carrying value.

Society Collections: In common with the practice followed by other museums it is the Society's policy to charge to expense rather than record as assets, purchases of coins, medals, manuscripts, etc. for the collections. The current value of the collections is not readily determinable.

Employee Benefits: Retirement benefits for all employees are provided through defined contributions by the Society for the purchase of individual annuity contracts with Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association/College Retirement Equities Fund. The cost of the plan for the year ended September 30, 1984 was $56,857.

Trust Income: The Society is the beneficiary of income from certain trusts administered by others. Such income, which amounted to $37,072 in 1984, is recorded when received.

Land, Building and Equipment: The Society records its investment in building and equipment at original cost less accumulated depreciation on a straight-line basis from date of acquisition. Land is recorded at nominal value ($1.00), since the fair market value at the time of gift (1916) is not practicably determinable and, in the opinion of the management, is not material in relation to the financial statements. The cost, accumulated depreciation and estimated useful lives of the building and equipment are as follows:

	Cost	Accumulated Depreciation	Estimated Useful Life
Building	$ 583,349	$ 349,454	100 years
Equipment	444,910	173,708	10 years
	$ 1,028,259	$ 523,162

Donor Restricted Funds: The Society follows the practice of retaining the principal amount of donor restricted contributions for investment. Disbursements for the restricted purposes are charged to related funds which are available for such purposes.

(2) TAX STATUS

The Society is exempt from Federal income taxes under Section 501 (c)(3) of the U. S. Internal Revenue Code, and has been classified as an organization which is not a private foundation under Section 509(a) and is qualified for the 50% charitable contributions deductions.

(3) REAL ESTATE TAX

During the fiscal year ended September 30, 1984 the Society received reimbursement in the amount of $95,266 from the City of New York for real estate taxes paid under protest and has been removed from the real estate tax rolls.

(4) INSTALLMENT COIN PURCHASES

During the current fiscal year the Society became party to an installment sales contract, whereby coins with a purchase price of $133,500 are to be paid for in three installments, the first of which has been paid in the amount of $50,000. As of September 30, 1984 a liability exists and has been recorded in the amount of $83,500 representing the final two payments of $41,750 each, due on June 15 and December 15, 1985.
